The auto burglars had a field day in the Foothills yesterday. The victims discovered they had been burglarized and called APD from 4:45 a.m. to 9:57 a.m. and then a few more were discovered and reported up to 5:22 p.m. This shows that these incidents are most likely happening pre-dawn from the time people park outside secured garages overnight and a few later in the day when returning from using the Copper Open Space and coming home from work. Look at the array of items left in unattended vehicles – it's pretty staggering. Could we prevent these crimes by not leaving anything of value inside unattended vehicles? You bet we could. This requires a change of habit, but that's what crime prevention is all about – ditching old habits for new ones.
